The underside of modern American politics—raw ambition, manipulation, and deception—are revealed in detail in Andrew Young's riveting account of a presidential hopeful's meteoric rise and scandalous fall. Like a nonfiction version of All the King's Men, The Politician offers a truly disturbing, even shocking perspective of the risks taken and tactics employed by a man determined to rule the most powerful nation on earth.

Not only is The Politician a moving personal account of Andrew Young's political education, but it also offers a look at the trajectory that made John Edwards the ideal Democratic candidate for president and the hubris that brought him down, leaving his career, his marriage, and his dreams in ashes.

Andrew Young earned a bachelor's degree at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and a law degree at the Wake Forest University School of Law, then served as a volunteer for John Edwards's winning campaign for U.S. Senate. Now a private citizen, he lives in Chapel Hill with his wife, Cheri, and their three children.

Kevin Foley has over thirty years' experience in radio and television broadcasting, commercial voice-overs, and audiobook narration. He has recorded over one hundred and fifty audiobooks.
