

DARK TERRITORY

THE SECRET HISTORY OF CYBER WAR

READ BY MALCOLM HILLGARTNER

As cyber-attacks dominate front-page news, as hackers join the list of global threats, and as top generals warn of a coming cyber war, few books are more timely and enlightening than Dark Territory: The Secret History of Cyber War, by Slate columnist and Pulitzer Prize-winning journalist Fred Kaplan.

Kaplan probes the inner corridors of the National Security Agency, the beyond-top-secret cyber units in the Pentagon, the "information warfare" squads of the military services, and the national security debates in the White House to tell this never-before-told story of the officers, policymakers, scientists, and spies who devised this new form of warfare and who have been planning—and, more often than people know, fighting—these wars for decades.

From the 1991 Gulf War to conflicts in Haiti, Serbia, Syria, the former Soviet republics, Iraq, and Iran, where cyber warfare played a significant role, Dark Territory chronicles, in fascinating detail, an unknown past that shines an unsettling light on our future.

FRED KAPLAN writes the War Stories column in Slate and is the author of four other books, most recently The Insurgents: David Petraeus and the Plot to Change the American War, which was a New York Times best-seller and a Pulitzer Prize finalist. A former Pulitzer Prize-winning reporter for the Boston Globe, he has a PhD from MIT and lives in Brooklyn with his wife, Brooke Gladstone.

MALCOLM HILLGARTNER is an actor, author, playwright, and professional narrator. Under the name Jahnna N. Malcolm, he and his wife, Jahnna Beecham, have written over one hundred books for young readers; their musicals have played in theaters across America. His audiobook credits include works by Dean Koontz, Nelson Algren, and William F. Buckley Jr.
