

J. D. Robb presents the latest in the #1 New York Times bestselling series as homicide detective Eve Dallas sifts through the wreckage of the past to find a killer.

The body had been left in a dumpster like so much trash. When Lieutenant Eve Dallas arrives on scene, one of the uniforms recognizes the victim: a woman with no fixed address, known for offering paper flowers in return for spare change—and for keeping the cops informed of any infractions she witnessed on the street. But the little notebook where she scribbled down her intel on litterers and other such offenders is nowhere to be found.

Then, while the initial work on one murder is still in progress, Eve is summoned to a nearby building site to view more remains—in this case decades old, adorned with gold jewelry and fine clothing—unearthed by recent construction work. She isn't happy when she realizes that the scene of the crime belongs to her husband, Roarke—not that it should surprise her, since the Irish billionaire owns a good chunk of New York.

Now Eve will have to plunge into a complex world of real estate development, family history, shady deals, and shocking secrets to find justice for two women whose lives were thrown away.

J. D. ROBB is the pseudonym for the New York Times bestselling author of more than 230 novels, including the futuristic suspense In Death series. There are more than 500 million copies of the author's books in print.
