

MY TANK IS FIGHT!

ZACK PARSONS

READ BY PATRICK LAWLOR

Soldiers who fly!
Tanks that fly!
Cruisers that...sink!

My Tank Is Fight! contains a humorous examination of twenty real inventions from World War II that never saw the light of day. Each entry includes full technical details, development history, in-depth analysis, and a fictionalized account of the invention's success or failure on the battlefield. From the turreted U-Cruiser, to an aircraft carrier made out of ice, to flying wing fighters and suicide missiles, My Tank Is Fight! delivers the thrilling action of the Second World War as it might have been, with a touch of humor.

Zack Parsons and SomethingAwful.com have been making people stupider over the Internet since 1999. If Zack were more secure in his sexuality, he would have a framed picture of Roger Mudd on his wall with a pink heart drawn around it, and for him, watching History's Mysteries is like riding with Indiana Jones and a little Asian kid in a coal car through a volcano.

An AudioFile magazine Earphones Award winner and Audie Award finalist, Patrick Lawlor is also an accomplished stage actor and director. His recent audio includes the New York Times bestseller The Last True Story I'll Ever Tell. "Lawlor is masterful."
