

The homicide cop with a passion for justice and no patience for foolishness returns in the crime thriller series by the #1 New York Times bestselling author.

It was a glittering event full of A-listers, hosted by Eliza Lane and Brant Fitzhugh, a celebrity couple who'd conquered both Hollywood and Broadway. And now Eve Dallas has made her entrance—but not as a guest. After raising a toast, Fitzhugh fell to the floor and died, with physical symptoms pointing to cyanide, and the police have crashed the party.

From all accounts, he wasn't the kind of star who made enemies or abused his entourage. Everyone loved him—even his ex-wife. And since the champagne cocktail that killed him was originally intended for Eliza, it's possible she was the real target, especially with a recently fired assistant, a deeply bitter romantic rival, and an obsessed fan in the picture. But with attendees numbering in the triple digits, not to mention staff and servers, Eve will have her work cut out for her determining who committed murder in the middle of the crowd—and what was their motivation.

As one who's not fond of the spotlight herself, Eve could do without the media circus surrounding a case like this. But with the pressure on, she has to figure out who's truly innocent, and who's only acting that way.

J. D. ROBB is the pseudonym for the New York Times bestselling author of more than 230 novels, including the futuristic suspense In Death series. There are more than 500 million copies of the author's books in print.
