

Seventeen-year-old June Scott has always dreamed of becoming a novelist and writing the greatest love story ever told. One that would fill hearts and souls with happiness and joy. However, June has never been in love, and when she receives some devastating news, it doesn't feel as if there's much time left for her own beautiful love story.

That is, until she meets Jesse Taylor, the boy who treats every day as if it's his last. Which could be true ... for them both. But together, their shattered worlds light up, and a love strong and sweet grows between them.

With days slipping away like sand in an hourglass, June begins to write their love into words, determined to give the boy she loves the story of them ... and the world a reminder of who they might have been if their stars were written differently.

Because even when your heartbeat stops, a true love story never dies.

TILLIE COLE hails from a small town in the northeast of England. She grew up on a farm with her English mother, Scottish father, older sister, and a multitude of rescue animals. As soon as she could, Tillie left her rural roots for the bright lights of the big city. After graduating from Newcastle University with a BA (Hons) in Religious Studies, Tillie followed her professional rugby player husband around the world for a decade, becoming a teacher in between, and thoroughly enjoyed teaching high school students social studies before putting pen to paper and finishing her first novel.
