

Meet Skotch. Raccoon, PI—yours for a few buttons as long as the job isn't too illegal, whatever that means.

A mouse has gone missing. Normally this wouldn't raise any hackles, nor any alarms, but this mouse has something that everyone seems to want, though nobody appears particularly eager to say what that something is.

The fee is good—perhaps too good. Certainly not something Skotch can easily turn down.

If only Skotch can work out where the mouse is hiding, what he's hiding, and why his secrets are upsetting a lot of animals caught up in the Green City wars.

ADRIAN TCHAIKOVSKY is a British science fiction and fantasy writer known for a wide variety of work, including the Children of Time, Final Architecture, Dogs of War, Tyrant Philosophers, Elder Race, and Shadows of the Apt series, as well as standalone books such as The Doors of Eden, Spiderlight, and many others. Children of Time won the Arthur C. Clarke Award, and his other works have won British Fantasy, British Science Fiction, and Sidewise Awards. He is a frequent nominee in several Hugo Award categories.
