

Before the light of dawn, you will know the fury of the dead.

Originally published in 1980 and long sought after by fans, Dennis Etchison's novelization of John Carpenter's The Fog is widely regarded as one of the finest novelizations ever published. Reveling in the eerie, coastal horror, Etchison transforms the classic film into a haunting work of horror literature.

A writhing icy mist pulsing with terror. It is too late to escape. Even now the people of Antonio Bay are cut off, engulfed. Along darkened streets, death searches them out. There is no sanctuary for the living. Those who are doomed will die horribly. Those who are spared will suffer the endless fear of a soul-chilling night when the dead, finally, return for revenge. Includes a foreword on Dennis Etchison by writer Christian Francis.

DENNIS ETCHISON (1943–2019) was an American writer and editor of fantasy and horror fiction. During his career he won numerous awards including the British Fantasy Award, which he received three times.
