

WHEN TWO BEST FRIENDS ARE ATTACKED ON GRADUATION NIGHT, ONLY ONE OF THEM MAKES IT OUT ALIVE.

Left for dead at an abandoned house, Rose is rescued by former high school quarterback and heartthrob, Jake, who becomes an unexpected ally (and maybe something more) in her journey to find out who killed her best friend. But when she learns that seventeen years ago, another girl suffered the exact same fate in the exact same place, she wonders if a murderer might be back with a vengeance . . . or is a copycat killer on the loose?

Time is running out, because whoever the killer is, they're eager to correct their biggest mistake: letting Rose live. As Rose follows the trail of evidence, she's led down a path of horrors that threatens to expose the insidious secrets at the heart of her community—secrets the killer will do anything to keep quiet.

TRISH LUNDY is an East Coast transplant who now calls California home. She received her BA in English from UCLA, where she fell in love with the craft of writing. She's worked in the film industry and in marketing and is also a former hospice and palliative care volunteer. She is the author of The One That Got Away with Murder.
