BORROW TROUBLE

Narrated by Shari Peele & Ezra Knight

Borrow Trouble is a hot double-feature from two outstanding voices in African-American fiction. Comprising two distinct short novels—best-selling author Mary Monroe’s “Nightmare in Paradise” and critically acclaimed Victor McGlothin’s “Bad Luck Shadow”—this volume perfectly showcases their unique styles.

In “Nightmare in Paradise,” happily married Renee Webb is a good woman on a fabulous and long-overdue tropical holiday with her saucy best friend Inez. But after one wild night—and a sizzling tryst with a handsome stranger—Renee must face the music. In “Bad Luck Shadow,” Baltimore Floyd flees Harlem by train with hired killers on his trail. He makes it all the way to Kansas City, where he finds himself planning the biggest heist in city history.

Monroe satisfies her hungry readership with her seductive tale of unbridled passion and consequences, and McGlothin delivers a finely crafted noir of hardscrabble crooks and comen battling it out in the 1940s.
