

Ned Blackhawk A HISTORY OF NATIVE AMERICA

In these illuminating lectures, Professor Ned Blackhawk (Western Shoshone) chronicles the history of Native America from the time shortly before the expeditions of Christopher Columbus to the present. Focusing on the Columbian Exchange, Indians and the American Constitution, American Indian Removal, the Civil War, and the modern age, Professor Blackhawk concludes his revealing course by addressing the issues that continue to affect Native Americans today.

NED BLACKHAWK is a professor of history and American studies at Yale University, where he teaches American Indian Studies courses and serves on the advisory board of Yale's Native American Culture Center. He earned his B.A. in honours history from McGill University (1992) and graduate degrees in history from UCLA (1994) and the University of Washington (1999). He is a member of the Te-Moak Tribe of Western Shoshone Indians of Nevada. His first book, Violence over the Land: Indians and Empires in the Early American West, examines the history of the American Intermountain West, or Great Basin, prior to Anglo-American settlement and was a winner of several professional prizes for history.
