RETHINKING OUR PAST

Recognizing Facts, Fictions, and Lies in American History

This course is designed to enlighten and encourage you to consider the factual basis of many of our most-cherished yet glossed-over stories and the real-life characters who populate them. From archaeological misinformation to investigations into the nature of modern public policy, Professor Loewen challenges you to consider the history of what “was” rather than what has been told by standard teaching methods and textbooks.

This is history revealed. This is history as it was made, not as it is usually taught by well-meaning, but misdirected, teachers. Go back in time and recover what has been “lost.” The historical truth helps to make sense of our present circumstances as Americans and for our future as world citizens.

JAMES W. LOEWEN taught for twenty years at the University of Vermont. Previously, he taught at Tougaloo College in Mississippi. He attended Carleton College and holds a Ph.D. from Harvard University. He now lives in Washington, D.C. His many books include Lies Across America: What Our Historic Sites Get Wrong, Mississippi: Conflict and Change (co-authored), which won the Lillian Smith Award for Best Southern Nonfiction, The Mississippi Chinese: Between Black and White, Social Science in the Courtroom, and The Truth About Columbus. He won the 1996 American Book Award, the 1996 AESA Critics' Choice Award, and the Oliver Cromwell Cox Award for Distinguished Anti-Racist Scholarship for Lies My Teacher Told Me: Everything Your High School History Textbook Got Wrong.
